London, November 7.

Yesterday arrived a Mail from Holland, and a Mail from France.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated Nov. 13.

From the Imperial Camp at Temeswar, Oct. 23. Since the Departure of the Ottoman Garrison, we have been employ'd in withdrawing the Cannon from the Batteries, in cleaning the City, and in repairing the Damages done by the Bombs. The Guard which convoyed the Garrison returned Yesterday into the Camp, except 100 Horse whom the Adjutant General Design retained with him. The News we have from the Enemies is, that a Body of Turks and Tartars, the Number whereof is unknown, appeared near Orsava, being unacquainted with the Surrender of Temeswar. 'Tis said their Design was to extend themselves in the Plain of Caranlebes, and make Incursions into the Country: Of which we expect more certain Advice, in order to make the necessary Dispositions against them.

Peterparadin, Oct. 23. We hear that the Turks having on the 18th received Advice at Belgrade of the Surrender of Temeswar, they were in the utmost Consternation, apprehending that the Imperialists will not fail to march that way next Spring. They add, that the Turks who came from Temeswar arrived the 21st at Belgrade. That the Turks and Tartars that were camped near Banzova, have abandoned their Camp, and would have retired about the Bridge, but were not permitted to go so far; so that they remain near the Bridge of Vilezina. That the Turks, as well those at Belgrade as those that came from Temeswar, desert in great Numbers: And that even the Grand Vizier himself would not desert, but that he was retained by a new Expedition of the General of the Janizaries, who told him, if he went away he should first find the Keys of Belgrade to the Christian General at Peterparadin: So that the Vizier was fain to resolve to tarry; and he has caused the Bridge of Vilezina to be repaired, which was broke and carried away by the Rapidity of the River. We hear also, that the Turks have begun to raise a Redoubt with Fascines on the Side of the Save, to place a Battery there of four Pieces of Cannon to be used on Occasion.

From the Amst. Courant, dated Nov. 12 and 14.

Yunka, Oct. 31. We hear by Letters from the Camp, that Prince Eugene had sent to Segedin the heavy Cannon made use of in the Siege of Temeswar; and had Intention to have taken in some small Posts on the Danube, before the Army separated; but it was not here thought fit to fatigue the Troops any farther, so that his Highness is expected here by the 2th of November. We hear that since the Battle of Salankemen, the Turks treat M. Eleichman, who is at Belgrade, extrem civilly. The Report that the Garrison of Temeswar would be detained till that Imperial Minister was permitted to come home, was groundless, and is now said that our Court is willing he should remain there, in order to negotiate Affairs: For the great Respect they shew to him makes it believed that they have a great Desire for Peace, and in fact they will make use of the Mediation of the King of Great Britain to bring it about. The Turkish talked that the Sultan, fearing Insurrections, had already let Proposals of Peace to be made to him: But he does not hinder the Preparations for continuing the War, which are carried on with great Diligence.

Thorn, Nov. 1. The Treaty of Peace was last Thursday concluded, and signed on Friday. On Sunday it is to be proclaimed, and Te Deum sung in Thanksgiving. It is agreed, that the King may be there Absent in the Year out of the Kingdom, conformable to the Constitution of Lublin in the Year 1703. Some of the Articles of it are these: There must be but six Saxon Ministers in the Polish Chancery. No more than 1200 Saxon Troops shall remain in Poland, and they shall live upon their own Expence, as well when they lye still as when they march, without being any Charge upon the Country; and the Commander of them shall take an Oath of Fidelity to the Republick; as well as the King. And that this Liberty for 1200 shall not be made use of for a Pretence of bringing in more. The rest of the Articles will be communicated hereafter.

Hamburg, Nov. 10. On the 2d, the Czar with a Retinue of 300 Horse came to Frederickstadt, and took up his Lodging at the House of the Widow of the Burgomaster Calis. On the 4th his Majesty, attended by Prince Dolhoruck, passed to Tonningen, and returned in the Afternoon to Frederickstadt. On the 8th he came to Itzehoe, the 9th to Brabmsfede, and lay at Seegeberg. And this Day he will go to Lubeck, and thence pass forward to Mecklenburg. The Czar's entourage follows his Majesty by easy Journays, being with Count The. Hanoverian Privy Counciller the Heer van Werpp, who waited here two Days, is gone to meet the Czar and serve him to Gorr. He believed his Majesty will accordingly pass from Mecklenburg to Gorr, and from thence will go to Holland; but this is uncertain.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated Nov. 12.

Brins, Nov. 3. One of the Czar of Moscow's Gentlemen is arrived here, and has talked that he comes to intimate that his Czar's Majesty is desirous to have a short Conference with the King of Prussia concerning some Affairs of Consequence, and therefore desires his Majesty to name a Time and Place for it. But he says, that the Emperor's Majesty is not to be named for it. And in regard that we cannot penetrate into the Design of this Meeting, many Speculations arise upon it.

Brins, Nov. 12. The Marquis de Prié having Yesterday sent his Chamberlain with Dispatches to Vienna, returned to set out the same Day for Brussels, according to his Excellency departed from hence last Night at 9 a Clock, accompanied by Baron Heems, the Emperor's Envoy, in his Coach, and went to Delft, from whence at 11 he embarked for Rotterdam, and there goes on Board a Yacht to Day to pass to Antwerp by Water, and thence to Brussels. Baron Heems is expected back this Night.

From the Paris News Letter.

Paris, Nov. 14. A Manuscript List is handed about of the Fines set upon Persons that have been concerned in Publick Affairs, wherein 60 are named, and the Sums set down they are respectively fined at, each according to the Estate he has got by the Publick. This List amounts to 15 Millions, which is the first, and the said the like will be issued every Month for a Year together; and Report says that the following Lists will amount to more considerable Sums.

The Sermon of Father la Ferte continues to make a great Noise, and the Cardinal de Noailles is still incensed against the Cardinal de Rohan, representing much that he who resides at Strauburg should appoint Preachers before the King without Permission of the Archbishop of Paris. The Management that preceded this Nomination seems to intimate, that the Cardinal de Rohan was somewhat conscious that he had not the Power he claims, in the Prince de Rohan, who was employed in it, raised upon the Duke de Penthièvre, to desire Leave to appoint Father la Ferte; his Royal Highness, indeed, he might if it was according to the usual Form; but referred him to the Cardinal de Noailles. The Prince waited upon his Eminence accordingly, but was answer'd, it could not be, that at Father being interdicted. The Prince urged many Reasons, and the Right of the Cardinal de Rohan to name whom he thought fit, and the Cardinal de Noailles insisted it could not be done without his Permission: But it availed not with the Prince de Rohan, for he caused the Father to preach. 'Tis not doubted that all this is the Work of the Jesuits to exasperate the two Parties, and hinder the Assembly of the Prelates of the Kingdom, which is to be held the 20th of this Month, to endeavour to terminate the Disputes about the Constitution.

Notice is hereby given to all Wool-Com-bers and others, whose Trade requires the use of soft and penetrating Oils, that at the Beech-Oil-Company's House in Essex-street in the Strand, they may be furnished with one of the most excellent and delicate Oils in the World, which is not only sweeter and more pleasant in the handling than their highest rated foreign Oil, but will also go a great deal farther, tho' they use but a like Quantity. Dealers in the Country may order their Correspondents in London to send them what they please, for Trial, so it be not less than a Vessel of 20 Gallons, and they may afterwards take larger Parcels, as they like it. The Price is fix'd at 5s. per Gallon, and ready Money is expected. Surgeons, Apothecaries, and many other Professions, which require a considerable Use of Oil, cannot possibly be furnished Cheaper, nor more aptly for their Purpose. It is far better for the Soap-makers Trade than any other Oil whatever. It is so sweet that it is daily eat with Sallets, and preferred by many to the best Olive Oil that comes from Italy: And tho' in its natural Quality it is too soft and open for the Painter's Use, yet if they boil it (as they commonly practice) it has been experienced that no Nut Oil goes beyond it, tho' they buy this cheaper, beyond all Comparison.

Bibliotheca Cookeana, &c. A Catalogue of the Libraries of the late Ingenious Mr. Thomas Cooke of Fulham, and an Eminent Merchant of London, deceased.
